

Couple Vanishes Mysteriously

NOTES FROM A CITY EDITOR'S DAYBOOK—The average time-card punching American male hasn't the slightest idea what goes on around his household during the weekday morning hours.

This has led to a lot of comic-strip ideas, primarily those centering around (a) ice man, (b) housewives in curlers and sloppy housecoats, and (c) a housewife's idea that the average husband spends his working hours around the water cooler with the office beauty.

But as one who spent two days this week sick abed (well, almost) but possessed of keen observation and discerning mind, I can report to all wondering males that a housewife's lot is a snap, snap, snap. This is a first-hand account to all of my male counterparts, who until this exposure, are forced to accept, per se, the tales of day-after-day drudgery and doldrums poured forth at the evening dinner table. Well, weep no more, my hearties.

Since this is a many-faceted topic, let me tell you about morning television. Most males don't see morning television, unless he works night shifts, and then he is of no mind to see and hear the wonders thereof.

Since one incident had something to do with my rapid recovery (penicillin figures, too), I shall dwell on the so-called morning shows, which, of course are devoted to the woman's angle.

That an advertiser would spend millions (maybe it's billions?) to entertain women during the morning hours when it is generally believed that women are toiling in their roost, gives you a pretty fair idea of how quickly that myth can be punctured.

Now take Godfrey for instance. I eased from my bed of pain Monday morning, lay groaning on the living room sofa as my wife said sweetly, "I'll turn on Godfrey; maybe you'll like him."

My ideas of a cure for what ailed me didn't encompass Mr. Godfrey. Even in the bloom of health, Mr. Godfrey, in the teenage vernacular, failed to "send me."

Too feeble to protest, I took Godfrey. The opening scene showed Mr. Godfrey off Miami Beach aboard a large and expensive yacht. A remote pickup disclosed him singing "Moon Over Miami" or some such large plug for Florida. I cast a sickly eye toward the window: we were experiencing a mild blizzard.

After the yacht cut a few more capers off the beach, Mr. Godfrey's script called for him to board a dinghy, along with a couple of the show's brightest girls, and the three of them would come rowing into the beach and the show's main performance. Someone lowered the dinghy and Mr. Godfrey descended a ladder into the craft.

The swell was mounting rather ominously, and before you could say Santa Claus, Mr. Godfrey had flipped overboard!

It wasn't a script-like flip; it was sort of a comic diving board flip, legs akimbo, and arms flailing.

I confess that I don't know what it was that brought me off the sofa with such a yell. My wife said later that I sounded like a high school sophomore rooting at the annual homecoming game.

Neither can I explain my sudden recovery from my illness. Frankly, I haven't felt better for some while.

13 Die as Jet Strikes Apartments

Disaster Shocks Alaskan Air Base; Six Critically Hurt

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—A jet fighter plane which roared out of control on a takeoff, mowed a deadly fire-strewn path through six big Eielson Air Force Base housing units Tuesday and wiped out at least 13 lives.

Two more persons are believed among the mostly civilian dead. The victims included year-old triplets, whose parents and two brothers escaped.

The death toll announced by Maj. John Orr, base public information officer, included the pilot. Six of eight persons treated after the crash and fire received critical injuries. Possibly a score of firemen and volunteers suffered from frostbite in the 16-below-zero weather.

Roaring along a few feet above the ground at an estimated 150 miles an hour, the F84 piloted by 1st Lt. Alfred F. Pounders, 28, of Monticello, Miss., veered at almost a 90-degree angle as it left the runway, witnesses said.

It roared over installations of the base for about a quarter mile, then plowed into the housing area. Rudy Hammer, an electrical engineer employed at the air base, saw the plane thundering toward the six 8-unit apartment houses.

"The plane bounced on one building, throwing it all into flames," Hammer recounted later. "Then it bounced on another building and a wing flew off. Then it ripped down a high-tension power line. From there it smashed right through an apartment house and scattered everywhere, crashing into a parking lot and wrecking cars."

The apartment unit was virtually demolished as the plane exploded. Parts of it, its furnishings and the plane spewed over the two-block area onto the other five houses.

The tremendous impact sent apartment fuel tanks hurtling through the air, feeding the fires which had broken out in all the buildings.

Pamela Harris, 21-year-old Eielson resident who had just alighted from a bus a short distance away, said the oil tanks burst like bombs and she saw the flames engulf one group of school children coming home for lunch. She never learned what happened to them.

The triplets, sons of Sgt. and Mrs. William Thimble, were killed.

Stormy Weather Fades, But Much of Nation Still Is Cold

Stormy weather which struck sections of the Midwest and Northeast appeared fading today but there was no immediate relief from the unseasonable cold over the central and eastern parts of the nation.

The Arctic air centered in the Dakotas and Nebraska, where temperatures were generally below zero. But it was freezing and below in wide areas south and eastward to the Eastern Seaboard.

The storm was centered in the St. Lawrence Gulf during the night and continued moving northeastward.

The freezing line extended southward to the Gulf Coast of Alabama, northern Florida and northern Texas. Record low temperatures for the date were reported in many parts of the cold belt Tuesday and similar reports were expected today.

Snow and wind storms which raked the Great Lakes region were blamed for at least eight deaths, including five in the Buffalo, N. Y., area and three in Michigan. Snowfall in the Buffalo district measured 16 inches, the same amount reported around Ironwood, Mich.

Schools and department stores were closed in Buffalo and thousands of persons were stranded on street corners and in marooned cars. Schools also were closed in some Michigan and Wisconsin counties.

First Returns To Goodfellows

Early returns in Dixon's annual Goodfellow Christmas fund drive disclosed today that seven contributors had given a total of $72.22. This was the first report of the fund which annually begins immediately following Thanksgiving and continues right up to Christmas Eve.

All Dixon area residents are familiar with the Goodfellow fund but to those newcomers in this vicinity, it must be explained that the funds are used to buy Christmas food, clothing and toys for the needy children and families.

Carefully screened, the Goodfellow list contains hundreds of children whose Christmas morning would be minus the good things children have come to expect and enjoy.

The Evening Telegraph serves as the depository for the fund but it is spent by volunteer groups, who also collect clothing, pack baskets of food, and perform the million and one things necessary to get ready for the joyful day.

You can mail your check or money order to the Goodfellow Fund, Evening Telegraph, Dixon, Ill.

Wearable clothing and shoes can be taken to Mrs. Louis Leydig, 210 N. Dixon.

Toys which your children have outgrown can be taken to the Dixon fire station where firemen will handle the repairing and painting of them. Hurry, though, because the toy department will close on Dec. 10 in order to allow for processing of the toys before Christmas.

Make S-D Day A Safer One!

Tomorrow is the second annual Safe-Driving Day observance.

The goal of the campaign is for the nation to go through a 24-hour period without a single auto fatality.

The S-D Day campaign is also being carried out on the local level.

State Police Lt. Ray Cramer said that all days off have been canceled tomorrow and all patrolmen will work 10-hour shifts in an effort to make the day a success in Northwestern Illinois.

Sheriff John Stouffer said he is in favor of every effort to reduce accidents and that his department will patrol the county roads throughout the day.

He added that there have been 19 persons killed in auto crashes thus far this year—five more than were killed in 1954.

Chief of Police Earl Kelchner appealed to the citizens of Dixon to make S-D Day a success. He said there have been 288 accidents in the city this year as compared to 312 last year for the same period.

As an added incentive, free parking will be allowed Monday if there are no accidents during the 24-hour period.

School Stop-Light Now in Operation

A school crossing stop light was placed in operation this week on the new section of Alt. Rt. 30 near the Rainbow Inn. The signal is the type which pupils may activate by pushing a button. It will be used by Jefferson School pupils living south of the highway.

The new light is the second of its type in use in the Dixon school district. The first has been located on Galena Avenue near Fifth Street for about two years. The lights are in operation during school rush hours.

Wife-Beating Case Delayed Until Dec. 12

Gordon Emmole Has Probable Fracture Of Skull, Report

The arraignment of Gordon Emmole, 38-year-old Dixon man, today was continued until Monday, Dec. 12, for the purpose of entering a plea.

Emmole is charged with aggravated assault on his wife, Doris, on Nov. 23.

Dixon Police Officers Ed Trotter and William Boehme reported that Emmole was fighting with his wife and was striking her head against the wall of the City National Bank building prior to his arrest.

He was also arrested on city charges of being drunk and disorderly and for resisting arrest.

Emmole claims that he was struck on the head with a blackjack after his arrest. The officers deny the charge and say he fell and struck his head on the sidewalk while resisting arrest.

A medical examination disclosed that Emmole suffered a "probable" fracture of the skull or at least a severe concussion.

Emmole, the father of three children, has a lengthy police record of disturbing the peace, intoxication and disorderly conduct. State Atty. James Bales said today, following Emmole's appearance in county court, that he intends to have all witnesses for the prosecution present Dec. 12 to clear up the blackjack incident.

Council to Post Police At Crossing

City National Curb Bank Plan Okayed Tuesday

The safety of Dixon high school students and discourteous motorists were the main topics of discussion Tuesday night by the Dixon city council.

It was decided, by mutual agreement between school officials and the council, that all high school students will be instructed to cross Peoria Avenue at the Boyd Street crosswalk and that a police officer will periodically halt traffic to permit them to cross safely.

The council also amended the parking ordinance to permit curb bank deposits at the City National Bank. It was reported that no cash consideration has been agreed upon.

Sheldon Bross, principal of Dixon high school, introduced the high school problem because of "no apparent protection for students crossing Peoria Avenue."

He's Neutral

—He stressed, however, that his appearance had nothing to do with the one-way street controversy. (North Peoria Avenue is a one-way street for southbound traffic.)

Bross told the councilmen that "motorists don't pay any attention to students attempting to cross the street" and about the only way they can get across is to "gang up and force their way across."

He said a police officer had been on duty at the high school during the 8 a.m. and noon "rush periods" but that the traffic has not been stopped.

Bross added, "The officer either stands on the corner or sits in the squad car."

Paul Potts, commissioner of public health and safety, cited the fact that a "bottleneck" is created by stopping traffic but guaranteed that traffic will be stopped for the students in the future.

Sherwood Dees, superintendent of schools in Dixon, echoed the statements by Bross and explained that he was "interested in the safety of the more than 900 high school students."

He also cited the "disregard of pedestrians by motorists in Dixon."

Town 'Typed'

Commissioner C. Lyle Ballard, who served as acting mayor Tuesday night in the absence of Mayor William Slothower, added, "This town is noted for motorists not being courteous to pedestrians."

L. J. Welch, commissioner of public property, also reminded the councilmen of the "sad" water drainage situation at the intersection of Peoria Avenue and Boyd Street.

Ballard explained that the intersection is an "alley-type of construction" and thought it should be a project for next year.

By amending the parking ordinance, the council vacated the four corner parking meters alongside the City National Bank on First Street. These meters are located on the south side of the street and start at the southeast corner of the Galena Avenue and First Street intersection.

The purpose of the curb deposit service is to alleviate congestion. The hours for the service is from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. weekdays and from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturdays.

Three Present

Only three commissioners were present at the council meeting. Mayor Slothower is in Miami, Fla., attending the National Municipal Association convention and Orval Gearhart, commissioner of streets, was absent.

In other action: —Potts announced that there will be free parking in Dixon Monday if no auto accidents occur in the city Thursday, Safe-Driving Day. —Ballard said that a great deal of confusion has arisen over the forthcoming $35,000 referendum

A Landmark Blazes

DIXON FIREMEN shown at work extinguishing a fire which partially destroyed an old Dixon landmark at 608 Jefferson Ave., early today. For details see accompanying news story.

Landmark Here Hit By Blaze

A Dixon landmark, the Alexander S. Ketchin residence, 608 N. Jefferson Ave., this morning was heavily damaged by smoke, fire and water.

The story and a half structure is believed to be the oldest house in Dixon.

Ketchin, an 82-year-old bachelor, told an Evening Telegraph reporter that he discovered the fire about 7:30 a. m. and attempted to extinguish it himself.

He said it started between the walls in the kitchen and had no idea what caused it.

After a reported mix-up as to who would report the fire, a neighbor finally turned in the alarm at 8:01 a. m.—nearly a half hour after the fire was discovered.

Fire Chief Gail Keyser said the blaze was confined to the second floor but that the downstairs was badly damaged by smoke and water.

Started in Cupboard

Keyser said the fire apparently started in a cupboard adjoining the kitchen.

The fire chief said the fire spread rapidly to the second floor and had a good start by the time the firemen arrived. The cause of the fire is undetermined.

Ketchin, who lives alone, was not injured. The house was not equipped with a telephone.

Keyser also warned motorists against driving a vehicle in the same block as a fire. He said that two arrests were made this morning as the result of motorists driving over hoses in the street.

Historic Spot

The house, built mostly of oak, is of considerable historical interest.

According to George C. Dixon, retired circuit judge and local historian, the house was built in 1837 by the Rev. James DePui, Episcopal minister, near the corner of E. Everett Street and Jefferson Avenue.

It was moved to its present location late in the 1880's, according to its owner.

Father John Dixon reportedly offered the Rev. DePui his choice

Federal Loan Group Names Alden Hunter

The target date for beginning operation of the newly organized First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Dixon is Jan. 1, according to Alden Hunter, who was elected president of the firm Tuesday night.

Other officers named during the meeting in Loveland Community House were Joseph Villiger, vice president; Ralph Salzman, secretary, and William Wolfe, treasurer.

The board of directors includes Harry H. Bates, John Dixon, W. E. Hubbell, Donald McWethy, Paul Potts, Carl Plowman and Howard Swanson.

The temporary location of the association will be at 106 River St., now occupied by Alden Hunter's real estate firm. Hunter said the real estate office will be moved, and there will be no connection between the association and the real estate firm.

Officials said they hope to find a more suitable location for the association soon.

The loan firm will be capitalized at $150,000, Hunter said.

of lots in North Dixon if he would settle here.

The minister accepted the offer and built what is now the Ketchin residence, according to Judge Dixon.

Authorities Fear Work Of a Maniac

Blood Splattered Throughout Home Near Lebanon, Ill.

LEBANON, Ill. (AP)—A carpenter and his attractive wife, who vanished mysteriously, were feared victims of a maniac after their home was found splattered with blood.

An extensive search for Harold Smith, 30, and his wife, Arlene, 35, started Tuesday night after Mrs. Smith's parents visited their home. The couple was last heard from Sunday night.

"This is the crime of a maniac," Clifford Flood, deputy sheriff of St. Clair County, declared. County and state authorities theorized the couple had been slain in their home and the bodies dragged into a car and taken away between 8 and 8:30 p.m. Sunday.

Blood in All Rooms

Blood was splattered on the floor in all five rooms of the Smith home about one mile east of Lebanon which is about 25 miles east of St. Louis. There were at least five bullet holes in the windows and front door.

The Smith automobile was in an adjoining garage. There was no blood in the car or the garage, but police found tire marks from a car and a pool of dried blood in the yard. Bloody prints made by a bare foot were found on the kitchen floor, bathroom and hall floors and on a walk outside.

A pair of panties identified as belonging to Mrs. Smith was found on a road 300 feet in front of the isolated house. Deputy Sheriff Paul Haas reported.

Give Theory

One theory was that Mrs. Smith was dragged, still alive but injured, from the home after her husband was killed by a shot fired into the house from outside.

Haas expressed belief the bare footprints, all of a left foot, were hers. Some bridgework identified as having come from Mrs. Smith's mouth was found on a floor of the home.

Someone apparently had washed blood from his hands or an object in the bath tub, Haas said.

Organized Search

County and city authorities and state police joined in an organized search of the area in sub-freezing temperatures for the bodies. The sheriff's office appealed to farmers and others in the area to search their property.

The tire marks apparently were from a car which was driven to the opposite side of the house from the road to pick up a body dragged from the house, Haas said. A pool of blood marked the spot in the yard near where the car had stopped.

Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Dressel, were called to the scene Tuesday by a neighbor, Leland Riemann, who noted the bullet holes.

The Dressels were at a loss to explain why the couple might have been the victims of a slayer. They said they had been trying without

President 'Fine,' Say Physicians

GITTSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower's physicians reported after an examination today that he is "fine of symptoms" and his condition "continues to be satisfactory without complications."

Col. Thomas W. Mattingly, heart specialist of Walter Reed Army Hospital, Washington, joined Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, the President's personal physician, in a medical bulletin which made clear Eisenhower's activities still are being restricted even as they are progressively increased.

GOP Leaders Meeting in Chicago

CHICAGO (U) — Groundwork for the 1956 GOP convention and a round of speeches by Eisenhower administration officials were program items as the Republican National Committee opened a two-day session today.

Chairman Leonard W. Hall said in a statement outlining the schedule that the theme of the meeting was "the solid accomplishments of peace and prosperity" by Republicans.

Hall brought a personal message from President Eisenhower for delivery to the national committee at its full-dress session tomorrow morning.

Although a series of pep talks are scheduled, starting with an address by United States Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., tonight at the chairman's dinner, political talk on a scale that marked the Democratic National Committee meeting less than two weeks ago was not expected.

A majority of committee members want President Eisenhower to run again. They were cheered by Hall's report after a 45-minute visit with the chief executive at Gettysburg, Pa., Monday that he believes Eisenhower will seek a second term. "If he feels he is able," Hall's report was coupled with a glowing picture of the President's recovery from his heart seizure.

The national committee was expected to approve a convention call allotting delegate quotas to each state. A preliminary, unofficial computation prepared last March indicated that the 1956 convention at San Francisco will be made up of about 1,300 delegates, 94 more than in 1952.

No final decisions are expected on work of the arrangements and rules committees.

Wins $7,000 When Wrong Finger Is Removed by MD

BIRMINGHAM, England (U) — Mrs. Lily Patten has won 2,500 pounds ($7,000) in damages from a surgeon who got the wrong finger.

The 44-year-old woman was taken to a hospital after the mid-

The surgeon, Dr. B. H. Colman, admitted in court Tuesday he mistakenly amputated the little finger of the same hand instead of the injured one.

Dictionary Is Needed to Understand Campaign Talk

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (U) — If the English language had a mother and father they'd probably cry at what happens when the politicians of both parties start throwing their baby around.

Secretary of State Dulles, whose handling of foreign policy will be one of the Democrats' targets in the presidential campaign, wants foreign policy criticism—if any—to be "constructive."

The Democrats and Dulles may run into a little difficulty seeing eye to eye on what is "constructive."

And Adlai Stevenson, who thought he was putting his best foot forward in starting his drive for the presidency on a note of "moderation," suddenly discovered that a couple of very prominent Democrats abhor the word.

In the 1952 campaign Dulles may have thought he was "constructive" with his blasts at the Democrats' foreign policy. They didn't seem to think so at the time and may even throw some of his 1952 speeches back at him in 1956.

In 1952 he said, "We should create crises for Russia instead of Russia creating crises for us." He's been secretary since 1953 but this country has created no crises for Russia.

In 1952 he said many nations feared the United States "may rashly precipitate atomic warfare." But Dulles, as secretary, reportedly gave American allies the jitters when he talked of "massive retaliation" against the Reds.

In 1952 he proposed a plan to "disintegrate the empire of Soviet Russia" from within. How? By "passive resistance, slowdowns and noncooperation" in the satellites.

"Peaceful Ways"

This got such a bad reaction—to some Dulles seemed to be urging the unarmed satellite people to revolt against their Communist masters—that a few days later he said he meant only there were "peaceful ways" to do the job.

But in the years since Dulles became secretary, the satellites are just as firmly satellites as before.

It was in his Nov. 19 speech, outlining his program if elected president, that Stevenson said, "Moderation is the spirit of the times." He added that moderation must not be confused with stagnation.

This didn't sit well with New York's Gov. Averell Harriman, who insists he's not actively seeking the Democratic presidential nomination although he has made so many speeches lately that some people are unconvinced.

He told a news conference—the day after Stevenson's speech—there is no such word as "moderate" in the Democratic party. It is not known whether Harriman looked up the word before he used it.

But the American College Dictionary says of "moderation": Quality of being moderate; restraint; avoidance of extremes; temperance.

The Opposite?

If Harriman doesn't want to be considered moderate, he can hardly want to be considered the opposite, which is immoderate. The dictionary says of "immoderation": Exceeding just or reasonable limits; excessive; extreme.

Although Harriman hasn't said anything so far that makes any program he has look much different from Stevenson's, he nevertheless got a lot of publicity mileage out of his criticism.

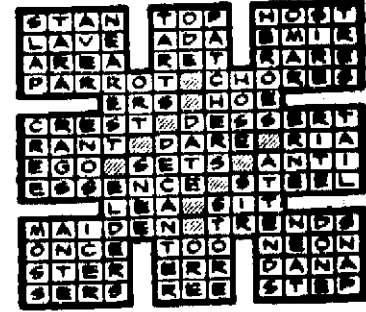

Then Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams got in on the act. He said: "It is upsetting now to hear from our side counsels for a pause for breathtaking and moderation."

But so far he hasn't offered anything very startling either.

"LITTLE BILL" your electric friend, says:

"Hours of entertainment for just pennies!"

How Public Service Company keeps your electric bill down (while everything else goes up)

Most things have doubled in price... but not electricity. Although you're using far more of it today, electricity actually costs you less per kilowatt-hour than in 1930.

One way we keep your electric bill low is through continuing research. Our engineers have found many ways of increasing efficiency of all kinds of standard equipment. Recently, for example, they added 15% to the load-carrying capacity of "pipe-type" cable simply by burying the line deeper.

As a result of this constant search for a "better way", today you're getting almost twice as much electricity for your money as you did 25 years ago.

Peace Is the Issue

The appeal to keep foreign policy out of politics is a pretty hardy perennial but it isn't likely to do very well in the developing presidential campaign.

As everyone knows, the "outs" have got to have an issue unless they have an overwhelming advantage in the matter of candidate personalities. The Democrats, currently the "outs," have been searching for the issue that would tell. Their early luck wasn't too good, but now the public opinion polls have come along to give them a cue. They show that by a ratio of about 5 to 1 the American people regard peace and related foreign policy questions as the overriding issue before this country.

They may, of course, change their minds about the 1956 campaign waxing hot. But right now peace, not farm problems or taxes or anything else, is what interests the average voter.

The Democrats obviously are only too happy to take up the subject. Many still smart from the heavy attacks Republicans delivered against them on foreign policy in former years. Others genuinely believe the GOP has done a very bad job in the field, yet has managed to put a good face on it all.

The Democratic task is not easy. They must begin by acknowledging that there is an absence of shooting, a condition many people equate quite simply with the word "peace." But they must try to suggest that this condition is in peril, that it stands on a shaky foundation.

This effort the leading Democrats have now undertaken. Adlai Stevenson, avowed 1956 candidate for the presidency, Senator Kefauver of Tennessee and Governor Harriman of New York have all plunged in. They charge the Republicans with generating confusion, with "bungling" our diplomacy, with putting up a false front that must surely crumble and expose our danger.

Former President Truman even goes so far as to say we don't have a friend left in the world because of what the Republicans have done.

If we accept the indications that peace is uppermost in people's minds, then it seems fair enough that foreign policy issues be debated—though not in terms which suggest to foreigners that a sort of political civil war is under way. Certainly the Republicans have made their share of mistakes during President Eisenhower's tenure in office.

But the historical evidence indicates the Democrats made plenty of their own mistakes in the years before 1953. So fair-minded voters are not likely to be swayed by arguments which seek to convey that all the sinning was on one side. Foreign policy is a very tricky field, and no party has a mortgage on the programs and practices which will most effectively serve this nation.

In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Exclusively Yours: Hollywood's wondering whether it will be "Jack Webb's Blues" now. After paying nearly $500,000 to first wife Julie London, he may have to shell out another bundle to divorce - bound Dorothy Towne. . . . Zsa Zsa Gabor's said to be preparing a "tell all" book about her life and marriages. I wonder if she'll title it, "Will Success Spoil Conrad Hilton?" . . . Bob Hope bet make-up man Wally Westmore $8000 to $1000 that Bing Crosby will not retire. Several days after Wally told Bob he mentioned the bet to Bing and Hope asked:

"What did he say?"
"All he said," replied Wally, "was that he liked the odds."

Still shooting inserts and added scenes for "The Ten Commandments," C. B. DeMille's call sheet the other day read:

"One taskmaster and two slaves."

A feminine visitor's comment about the call is the howl of the lot.

"Does taskmaster," she innocently asked, "mean Mr. DeMille?"

TELEVISION FANS can take the credit for Jeff Donnell's return as Alice to the George Gobel TV show.

She's signed now for 14 appearances this season. P.S. She also landed a raise.

But apparently Jeff's not going back to real life hobby, Aldo Ray. They're still separated.

Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis will slap on the old-age make-up and play their own fathers in the opening sequence of their new movie, "Pardners." The script calls for a couple of kids to play Dean and Jerry—a cue for Paramount to launch a search for a juvenile version of the comedy team.

Francis Bergen, wife of Edgar, broke in her new night-club act in the Circus Room of the Hotel del Coronado. Her show-stopper was a "Language Medley"—switching lyrics from Italian to French to German to Spanish and back to English.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK: Pearl Bailey on the set of "That Certain Feeling" about nixing a lucrative night-club offer for Christmas week.

"I don't have the kind of ego that makes me think I could top Santa Claus."

This is Hollywood, Mrs. Jones: The vineyard scenes for Mario Lanza's "Serenade" were shot the other day in Cucamonga, Calif.

But the Cucamonga labels were obliterated from all the grape-pickers' crates. After what Jack Benny's done with Cucamonga, the studio was afraid of unwanted laughs.

The Witnet: Overheard at the Saratoga: "She's a very versatile actress. She can do almost anything wrong."

BEFORE GEORGE BURNS met Gracie Allen, he recalls in his autobiography, "I Love Her, That's Why!" he tells about several dolls being in love with him, including one named Mary Murphy.

George laughing it up in print: "I could well understand how she found me attractive. Especially on stage. I looked great with make-up on and used to put on wonderful lips. I looked quite a lot like Dolores Del Rio."

Ear Witness: Janet Leigh's been given a bill of health by a London medic after picking up a fever infection in Africa during filming of "Safari." There's danger, however, that the ailment can recur.

After watching a well-stacked but untalented starlet act, a cynical friend of Phil Moody decided it: "Twinkle, twinkle, little star, how I wonder WHY you are."

What's Right?

It should go without saying that if you stop to pick someone up in your car in bad weather you should drive into the driveway or at least get as close to the door of the building they are coming out of as possible.

Whenever you are doing a person a favor, go the whole way.

Hell, it's too early to tell (who'll be 1956 presidential candidate). And besides, it doesn't make any difference who's President. We'll still have controls, quotas and allotments.

"Let's Put It in His Glove---For Luck"

The Doctor Says

Gallstones Usually Can Be Detected by Means of X-ray

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

As a start to a brief discussion of gallstones, I should like to quote from R. L.'s recent letter which asks two unanswerable questions.

"What causes gallstones to form," he asks, "and how long does it take them to do so?"

Before discussing the possible causes—and no one seems to sure about them—I must say that it is not known just how long it takes for gallstones to form.

Probably this varies from person to person, depends on the chemical nature of the gallstones, and usually takes quite a long time, but since one cannot see into the gall bladder, I doubt that any doctor would want to commit himself very far in replying to this question.

STAGNATION OR slowing of the flow of bile through the gall bladder is believed to favor the formations of gallstones.

Although no one knows exactly why stagnation should occur, such things as excessive fatness, lack of exercise, wearing of corsets, sagging of the abdominal organs and bad posture may slow the bile flow.

Whatever the cause for the formation of gallstones, they become increasingly common after 30 and are most frequent between 40 and 50. About three-fourths of all cases are in women.

Gallstones can get caught in the duct or passageway leading out of the gall bladder and produce severe pain and blockage to the flow of bile. Unless this happens the symptoms of gallstones are likely to be rather mild, at least at first. The most common is indigestion.

A SENSE of fullness in the abdomen and a vague feeling of discomfort may be the first signs. Sometimes nausea and vomiting, with an increase in the amount of intestinal gas, is the principal complaint.

At times there is some pain in the region of the gall bladder and this may be felt also in the back under the right shoulder blade.

Gallstones usually can be detected by means of X-rays. Some of them can be found by a simple X-ray plate of the gall bladder region. In most cases, however, a special dye or coloring matter has to be given to the patient which is eliminated through the gall bladder. An X-ray taken at the proper time after taking this dye should show any gallstones present. The stones appear as silhouettes against the dye.

IF STONES are producing any symptoms—and even sometimes when they are not—operation to remove them and the entire gall bladder must be contemplated. Whether operation is desirable or not requires a good deal of judgment, including analysis of the X-ray studies, the symptoms, age and the general physical condition.

As yet there is no drug which can be given which will dissolve the stones. Also, there is no sure way of making them pass down the bile duct into the intestines. If something could be found which would do either of these things surgery would be necessary less frequently.

Questions and Answers

Q—Is there such an animal as the ounce.

A—Ounce is the name given to the snow leopard, a member of the cat family, native to the mountains of Central Asia.

Q—Who was Miles Coverdale?

A—A bishop of Exeter, England, who became famous in 1535 for making the first English translation of the Bible.

Q—What wedding anniversary is celebrated as the emerald anniversary?

A—The fifty-fifth.

Q—What tree has three distinct types of leaves?

A—The leaves of the sassafras tree are of three different shapes. Some are oval with no lobes, or divisions, some have two lobes, and others have three. All three kinds are often found on one twig.

Q—Why does ocean water appear so blue?

A—Ocean water is blue because dirt particles in the water reflect the sunlight, but the water absorbs red and yellow. The greens, blues, and violets that are left make the indigo blue of deep ocean water.

Q—Is there a specimen of the famous Glastonbury thorn bush in this country?

A—The only one in this country is thought to be at the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C. The cutting was taken from the original Glastonbury thorn near Glastonbury, England, which is said to have been planted by Joseph of Arimathea, the merchant who gave his private tomb for the burial of Jesus.

Q—In what year did the Metropolitan Opera Company broadcast its performances for the first time?

A—In 1931. The Metropolitan first televised opera in 1948.

Q—Which is considered to be the oldest Christian church in North America?

A—The National Cathedral of Mexico City, founded some 400 years ago on the spot where the Aztec Indians had their temple.

Q—Why was iron not used by primitive men?

A—Because of its melting point of 2775 degrees F. They did not know how to make fires that hot.

WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The Middle East shooting has been moved right from the Gaza to the Washington strip. Within one recent week, the Washington press corps has had it from both barrels.

First it was Egypt's Ambassador, Dr. Ahmed Hussein, giving his country's side of the dispute. Then Israel's Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett moved in. And to say that confusion is rampant is to put it mildly.

To begin, both sides claim to be peace-loving states. "The policy of Israel is never to start a war or launch an offensive," says Sharett.

"The Egyptians have no aggressive plans, and it is not in their interest to attack anyone," says Hussein.

THAT BEING THE CASE, who started the fighting? Each accuses the other of breaking the 1949 armistice.

"We were given to understand by the Western powers that Israel had no intention of attacking us," says the Egyptian Ambassador. "But this hope was soon dashed when Israel launched its unprovoked assault on the Gaza strip on Feb. 28."

"Egypt has systematically violated the armistice agreement by armed incursions into Israel," says the Israeli Foreign Minister.

EACH SIDE CLAIMS the other is militarily stronger. This is something of a novelty. In most wars, each side claims it can knock the spots off its enemies.

This is the way Foreign Minister Sharett puts it: "Even before the Czech deal to furnish her with arms, Egypt had enjoyed a definite superiority over Israel in all classes of heavy arms, on land, on sea and in the air."

And this is how Ambassador Hussein analyzes it: "Even in the American press, Israel is credited with having a military superiority far in excess of the combined Arab forces, with being in a position to mobilize all her forces within 48 hours, and to capture easily the three neighboring Arab capitals in six weeks."

This being the situation, both sides claim they must have more arms—for self-defense and to maintain peace, of course.

AND WHAT DO YOU SUPPOSE the suggested solution for this stalemate is? Well, each side wants the United States to step in and make the other behave.

Israel wants a new treaty with this country. "Additional arms and a security guarantee are both sought by Israel as bulwarks against aggression in the absence of a peace settlement," says Foreign Minister Sharett.

Egypt's Ambassador Hussein, on the other hand, says that such a large section of Arab public opinion believes Israel so dependent upon the United States that, "Israel would not dare disobey her." Every Israeli act of aggression, says Hussein, convinces the Arabs that the United States is "indifferent" to the welfare of their 45 million people.

These final arguments seem to reduce the whole business to the ultimate absurdity. Both Arabs and Israelis, themselves innocent, blame their troubles on the United States for not furnishing them both with more arms—to keep them from fighting each other.

Keep Mate's Good Qualities Uppermost in Your Mind

The main reason why a husband so often looks better to his wife before marriage than he does five or ten years after is simply this: Before marriage she concentrated on his good points and ignored or refused to recognize his faults.

But after marriage, all too often a wife starts taking the good qualities for granted and begins brooding over the faults she once thought weren't at all important.

So one secret of a happy marriage would seem for a wife to try to hold on to the before-marriage habit of thinking a man is wonderful because he has so many good qualities. Never mind his faults.

Perhaps the wife can't help but acknowledge to herself that the faults matter more than she thought they would. If that is a fact, then she has to face it.

But she doesn't have to dwell on the faults in her mind, letting them annoy and upset her all out of reason. Nor does she have to start taking her husband's many good qualities for granted.

She can, if she wants to, hold on to the generous attitude she had toward her husband when she first fell in love with him.

DIVIDENDS OF HAPPINESS
It will pay her big dividends to do this. Not only because her generous attitude will make her happier, but because if she doesn't start concentrating on her husband's faults he isn't so likely to start concentrating on hers.

It's always difficult to be much concerned with the faults of a person who thinks you are mighty nice just as you are.

And this is as true in marriage as it is in any other relationship.

Nothing makes a girl laugh at life in general like real pretty front teeth.

It's funny how a pleasant smile makes other folks forget your shiny or unpressed suit.

Criticize Chiang for Veto Threat

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Nationalist China's threat to veto Outer Mongolia's application for U. N. membership—a move that could kill present chances of 17 other applicant nations—aroused growing resentment in U. N. circles today.

There was speculation Formosa's own foothold in the international organization might be loosened as a result.

Though Russia promised 13 vetoes — of all non-Communist applicants — unless Outer Mongolia and the other four Red candidates made the grade, the Chinese and not the Soviets were the villains to most sources who would comment.

Lose Friends

Angry diplomats predicted that the Nationalists' decision, reportedly made despite two appeals from President Eisenhower, would cost the Formosa government many friends it might need when the perennial question of seating Red China comes up in the next Assembly.

One delegate said if the Nationalist Chinese wanted to commit suicide in the U. N., they were going about it in the right way.

Sources close to Chiang Kai-shek's representatives said they risked a storm in the U. N. because they felt they had to oppose Outer Mongolia as a Red satellite and a companion of Peking. The disputed state, on the borders of Soviet Asia and Red China, was ruled loosely by China from 1891 to 1911.

The U. S. delegation, one of the Nationalists' staunchest supporters here, voiced open concern over the Chiang government's decision.

Dooms Chance

Diplomats pointed out that the Nationalist announcement virtually doomed any chance the United States had of bringing the Russians to get the non-Communists in.

U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. has been conferring with Russia and the other big powers in an effort to break the membership deadlock. Differences finally narrowed down to Outer Mongolia, which the United States opposed but agreed not to veto.

The membership question is slated to come up in the Assembly's Special Political Committee late this week.

Besides Outer Mongolia, Russia is pushing the applications of Albania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania. The 13 non-Communist entries are Finland, Portugal, Ireland, Jordan, Austria, Ceylon, Nepal, Libya, Cambodia, Laos, Spain, Italy and Japan.

Churchill's Birthday Is A Quiet One

LONDON (AP) — Britain's great man of the 20th century, Sir Winston Churchill, is 81 years old today.

By his own wish, a quiet celebration was planned with the chief event a birthday luncheon for 12 at his London home hard by the grounds of Buckingham Palace.

As she has for the past 16 years, Hungarian-born Mrs. Frederick Floris, a Soho pastry cook, baked the cake. This time it was in the shape of a straw "boat"—the hat traditionally worn by undergraduates of Harrow, Sir Winston's alma mater.

Atop the hat was a replica of the town crier's bell of reconstructed Williamsburg, Va. The bell carried the inscription: "he brought new strength to the belief in human liberty and dignity of the individual."

Next Wednesday Sir Winston will go to Drapers' Hall to receive another replica of the town crier's bell and a check for $10,000. The Williamsburg award created by the trustees of the restored Virginia colonial town for "outstanding achievements in advancing basic principles of liberty and justice."

The trustees of the Churchill birthday presentation fund launched to mark his 80th birthday announced it had been closed with 259,175 pounds 6 shillings 7 pence—$725,690.92—in the kitty.

Some 300,000 contributions ranged from a British copper penny to checks for 5,000 pounds ($14,000).

Churchill has set aside 150,000 pounds of the fund to endow his country home, Chartwell, as a museum for the "relics and mementos of my long life." The remainder goes into a trust to aid charities and philanthropies he designates as worthy.

South America has a mean elevation of 1800 feet.

MEET "EUGENIE"—She's a 180-pound dugong, considered by marine biologists to be among the rarest of sea-going mammals. Eugenie was rushed to the Steinhart Aquarium in San Francisco, Calif., after being caught in the western Pacific. The dugong, known popularly as a "seacow," is the catch of Dr. Robert Harry, Stanford University marine biologist. Dr. Harry is shown introducing Eugenie to newsmen.

City Officials Will Hear Stevenson

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson broke away from his handshaking campaign in Florida today to discuss municipal growing pains with some of the nation's city officials.

He was expected to throw out some suggestions for solving some of the problems of expanding urban areas in a speech to the American Municipal Assn.

The former Illinois governor took advantage of a brief lull in his Florida visit to rest from a rugged two days of seeing the people. His trip marked the first actual campaigning preliminary to the 1956 elections.

Stevenson estimated Tuesday night that in a two-day swing down the middle of Florida from Gainesville he made about 20 stops, delivered seven speeches and shook 7,000 hands.

With a full year in which to campaign, provided he wins the Democratic nomination, Stevenson said the voters in the medium size cities will see a great deal of him.

In 1952, Stevenson lost Florida to Dwight D. Eisenhower by almost 100,000 votes.

Geiger Goes Nuts Over This Housewife's Dishes

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — Dr. Lincoln LaPaz sat for his nontime meal, plunked a Geiger counter on the table and watched it go nuts over his dishware.

Before the day was through, LaPaz, head of the Western world's only institute of meteoritics, at the University of New Mexico, found himself with a disturbed wife telling him to get rid of the dishes.

He also had a "baffling mystery" and theorized that a couple of plate manufacturers may be sitting on a uranium mine.

Not Dangerous

What LaPaz discovered while testing a package he had received was that the orange glaze on his pottery plates was sending out 1.5 milliroentgens per hour compared to background radioactivity in the air of .03 milliroentgens. In other words, the plates from which he had been eating the past week were radioactive, although apparently not dangerously so.

The radioactivity was confined to the orange glaze. The pottery itself was not radioactive. The plates, he said, were from two different manufacturers and in each case gave off the same amount of radioactivity.

Asked what he thought caused the radioactivity, LaPaz said: "The only thing I can say is this: I'd like to know where they get the coloring material. I'd sure as heck stake a claim."

LaPaz discovered the radioactive dishware because of habit. Since a newspaper editor at Dallas, Tex., sent him a 33-pound half cylinder of pure uranium several years ago, LaPaz has put a Geiger counter to all packages he receives.

"The other day I got a package and carried it home," he said. "While I was waiting for lunch, I tested the package and I got strong radioactivity. I took it to the office and opened it there. But then I got no reaction."

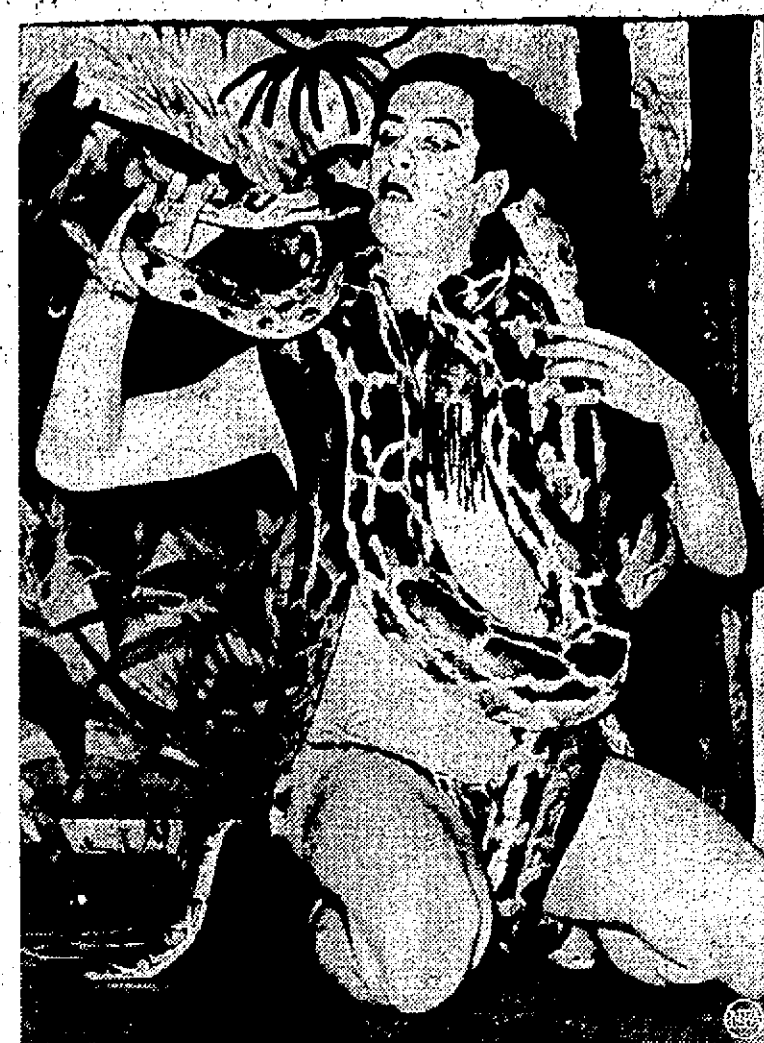

"I was completely baffled and I asked Mrs. LaPaz what dishes we had on the table after all leads gave out. We measured the green, blue and yellow dishes and got no results. But when we measured the orange, the Geiger counter went off the scale."

Farm Implement Plant to Close

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Louisville plant of the Minneapolis-Moline Co. will be closed at the end of January.

Plant Manager Albert Craig said Tuesday reason for the closing is a declining demand for farm machinery.

Some of the more than 500 employees will be transferred to plants in Moline, Ill., and Hopkins, Minn., Craig said.

AP's All-Midwestern Eleven

Notre Dame Gains Three Spots on AP Midwestern

Oklahoma Places Two; Big Ten Rates Four

CHICAGO (AP) — National champion Oklahoma and Notre Dame won five berths and the other six positions went to four Big Ten schools on the 1955 All-Midwestern football team named today by The Associated Press.

Notre Dame took three spots, while two each went to Big Seven Oklahoma, Big Ten champion Ohio State and Michigan, which had the unprecedented honor of placing two ends on the mythical team.

Rose Bowl-bound Michigan State and Iowa each gained one berth on the all-star array selected after a poll of coaches, scouts and AP sports writers.

The team:

Ends—Ron Kramer and Tom Maentz, both of Michigan.

Tackles—Cal Jones, Iowa, and Jim Parker, Ohio State.

Guards—Bo Bolinger, Oklahoma, and Pat Bisceglia, Notre Dame.

Center—Jim Mense, Notre Dame.

Backs—Earl Morrill, Michigan State; Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy, Ohio State; Tommy McDonald, Oklahoma; and Don Schaefer, Notre Dame.

Shift Jones

The 220-pound Jones, one of three repeaters from last year's All-Midwest team, was shifted from his normal guard position to tackle as was another strapping star, 242-pound Parker of Ohio State.

The abundance of many exceptional guards, nudged Michigan State's great guard-captain, Buck Nystrom, and fine tackle, Norm Masters, to the second team.

Bisceglia was the defense signaling bulwark of Notre Dame. Bolinger was the chief sooner hatchet man on Oklahoma's relentless march to an unbeaten campaign.

Other Holdovers

The peerless Cassidy, Ohio State's history-making halfback, and Michigan's 218-pound Kramer were the other two holdovers from the 1954 All-Star team.

Cassidy's All-Midwest fullback running mate, McDonald, Oklahoma's scoring phantom, provides a pair of game-breakers.

Morrill was the bell-wether on the Michigan State team. The Spartan star was not only a shrewd play-caller, but a magical ball-handler, passer and punter.

Notre Dame fullback Schaefer was the work-horse and key rusher of the Irish.

The remarkable thing about Michigan's great wing pair of Kramer and Maentz was that both had serious injuries, yet were rated above all competition in this area.

If either was the target of such passers as Morrill, Purdue's Len Dawson or Notre Dame's Paul Hornung, he might have had a phenomenal season.

Dawson and Hornung were named to the second team.

Mense won the center job in a close scrap with Oklahoma's Jerry Tubbs and Ohio State's Ken Vargo.

Second Team

Ends—Lamar Lundy, Purdue, and Harold Burnine, Missouri.

Tackles—Bob Hobert, Minnesota, and Norm Masters, Michigan State.

Guards—Carl Nystrom, Michigan State, and Francis Machinsky, Ohio State.

Center—Jerry Tubbs, Oklahoma.

Backs—Len Dawson, Purdue; Paul Hornung, Notre Dame; Earl Lunsford, Oklahoma A&M; and Tirrel Burton, Miami of Ohio.

Third Team

Ends—Dick Prendergast, Notre Dame, and Jim Kacavage, Dayton.

Tackles—Joe Krupa, Purdue, and Edmon Gray, Oklahoma.

Guards—Francis Sweeney, Xavier, and Wells Gray, Wisconsin.

Center—Ken Vargo, Ohio State.

Backs—Bob Burris, Oklahoma; Bob Mitchell, Illinois; Doug Roether, Kansas State, and Bill Murakowski, Purdue.

Cassidy Wins Trophy by A Landslide

NEW YORK (AP) — Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy, Ohio State's All-American back, is the third straight Midwestern football player to win the Heisman Memorial trophy.

The Columbus, Ohio, native who led the Buckeyes to their second straight Big Ten championship, won the award Tuesday by a landslide in a poll of 1,324 sportswriters and broadcasters.

Cassidy collected 2,219 points in balloting to determine the "outstanding college football player in the United States."

Wildcats Make It A Game After Big First-Half Deficit

OHIO — (Special) — The Ohio Bulldogs survived a fourth quarter rally by Franklin Grove and defeated the Wildcats, 42-36, here Tuesday night.

It was the first win in two starts for the Bulldogs and the third straight loss for Franklin Grove.

Cold shooting by both teams accounted for the low score. Only one player, Franklin Grove's Bill Hussey, scored more than 10 points.

Ohio led, 3-6, at the quarter and 23-9 at the half. The Wildcats cut the margin to 29-17 at the end of the third quarter but their fourth quarter rally fell six points short.

Dave Etheridge led the Bulldogs with nine points. Dick Anderson added eight and Jack Sheridan followed with seven.

Hussey paced Franklin Grove with 11 points. Dewain Hecathorne added seven points to the losing cause.

Ohio also won the frosh-soph game, 34-30.

The scoring:

OHIO: Etheridge, 9; Anderson, 8; Sheridan, 7; Gugerty, 6; Schultz, 4; Todd, 4; Ioder, 2; Townsend, 1; and Conner, 0.

FRANKLIN GROVE: Hussey, 11; Hecathorne, 7; Blume, 6; Hannitsch, 5; Kelley, 4; Stehl, 3; and Phillips, 0.

Frantic Frankie Lane Figuring in Trade Talk

Card Boss On Verge Of Big One

Tony DeMarco

Card Boss On Verge Of Big One

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Major league trade talk, almost nil during the opening days of the minors' convention, perked up briskly today and, as usual, frantic Frankie Lane, the boldest barterer of them all, was right in the middle of things.

The energetic general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, who has found it tough sledding in his efforts to swing his first National League swap since he quit the Chicago White Sox last month, appeared finally to be making some headway.

He spent most of Tuesday in conference with officials of the New York Giants, Philadelphia Phillies and Chicago Cubs. While no deal stemmed from these long sessions, it was expected that something will develop when he resumes negotiations with the three clubs today.

Lane admitted he was seeking a veteran catcher, a right-handed hitting outfielder and a front-line pitcher.

It can be reliably reported that the Cardinals are trying to woo Wes Westrum, strong defensive but weak-hitting catcher, from the Giants in exchange for infielder Solly Hemus and one of two outfielders believed to be Harry Elliott and Pete Whisenant.

The Giants reportedly have sounded Lane out on an entirely different deal, a big one that would involve Red Schoendienst, the Cards' aging but still brilliant second baseman. The deal would include Whitey Lockman and right-handed Jim Hearn of New York.

Both Lane and General Manager Roy Hamey of the Phillies acknowledged they were "not too far apart" in their proposed transaction that involves several players of regular status. Both sides declined to mention names.

In the American League, Cleveland, seeking to strengthen such positions as first base, pitching and catching, has talked to Baltimore concerning first baseman Gus Triandos and catcher Hal Smith, to Chicago concerning catcher Sherman Lollar and to Washington about southpaw Maury McDermott.

Basilio Slight Favorite Tonight

Fans See Scorchers in Return Go With DeMarco

BOSTON (AP) — Welterweight champion Carmen Basilio, a battle-scarred veteran unbeaten in more than two years, returns a courtesy and risks his title against young Tony DeMarco tonight in a re-match of one of the year's best slugfests.

Basilio, a 28-year-old ex-Marine from Canastota, N. Y., rules only a slight favorite in his first defense since losing the title from the 23-year-old bomb-throwing Bostonian in a sensational brawl last June 10.

Odds dropped from 9-5 to less than 7-5 on Basilio. The Boston Garden fight is scheduled for 15 rounds, but few experts figure it will go the distance.

Basilio, with an undefeated string of 14 fights, is returning a courtesy by meeting DeMarco on the challenger's home grounds. Tony made his first defense of the title in Syracuse, N. Y., and lost the crown on a 12th-round TKO.

ABC will broadcast and telecast the bout, with New England TV blacked out. The bout starts at 9 p.m. (CST).

The prospects of another bristling punching duel and DeMarco's fine showing in training has resulted in a brisk ticket sale. Promoter Sam Silverman expects a near-capacity crowd of 13,000 and gross receipts of about $190,000.

Since winning the title, Basilio has gone 20 rounds in competition, outpointing Italo Scorticini and Gil Turner in over-the-weight affairs. He has an over-all record of 47-17 with 21 knockouts and never has been stopped.

DeMarco has had only one fight since losing his title—a quick, first-round TKO over Chico Vejar in Boston Sept. 14. His record is 41-5-1 with 26 kayos. He has been stopped three times.

Perishables Are a Puzzle In Crop Surplus Problem

By GEORGE D. PERISHO
Ogle County Farm Adviser

OREGON — (Special) — I spent Thanksgiving at Greenville, Ill., and just like many of the rest of you, consumed more than my share of the turkey. Well, we have been talking about surplus problems, and the surplus meat situation, and I understand this is one way that we can reach a solution — if we just have more Thanksgiving days.

While in Bond County I enjoyed talking to the people from that section about the farm problem and the many alternatives for improving the farm price situation. It is interesting to hear the comments of those representing labor, industry, retail markets, packing plants and, of course, the farm people. Every one you talk with has a different alternative for solving the farm problem.

Last week I mentioned the second disadvantage to the loan and purchase agreement being that excess storage reduces consumption. Loss of the foreign market due to a high price tends to be permanent. Cotton is a good example. Devices such as the subsidized International Wheat Agreement must be used to provide an outlet. But what about the foreign markets? Other countries have surplus food. India has surplus wheat and rice, yet there are many people going hungry. We see hungry children in our own states and in our communities you will find that there are many who do not have meat on the table even once a day, primarily because of the cost.

The third disadvantage to this type of program is that perishables cannot be supported by storage loans. This type of merchandise is very difficult to handle and keep it usable for any length of time. Perishables must be purchased, and disposed of, usually at a substantial loss.

Spillage and waste create fine propaganda for selling communism to hungry people in other countries. We do not ordinarily consider corn as a perishable food, but in many cases high moisture corn in storage has gone out of condition creating additional marketing problems. Storage problems benefit the large farmer more than the small operator. The large operator is in a better position to use this volume and the volume justifies the red-tape involved.

Another disadvantage to the loan and purchase agreement is the total cost to the consumer. Although the direct monetary cost of the program may not necessarily be high, higher prices paid by consumers in the market plus spoilage and waste, make the total cost much higher than the added tax burden.

Beginning next week I will comment on the cost of various agricultural programs over the past 20 years and report the amount that each family has contributed.

From time to time I have discussed the delay involved in testing soil samples. This is one of the major topics at the soil test clinics and if you have not found it possible to attend one of the clinics, I am sure you would do well to make an effort when you are invited.

If at all possible, we will have your soil tested within 30 days from the time it is brought into the laboratory. However, you must consider there are many factors involved. First, is the soil dry enough to test or does it have to stand on the rack for the moisture to dry out before it can even be sifted? After the sifting process, the soil will remain on the shelf for a period of 10 days so that it is completely air dry for an accurate potash test.

With the volume that we have at the present time, it is very difficult to maintain a testing schedule of 30 days, and always at this time of year everyone is quite anxious to have his soil test completed so he will receive approval for ASC payment. As usual, we find it necessary to turn down any soil samples after Dec. 1 if you are interested in having them tested prior to Dec. 31.

At the last soil test clinic, Charles Beard and Harvey Newcomer, Mt. Morris, both commented they plan to have their soil tested prior to clover each year and make that a definite part of their farm management program.

'Brick' Church Is 98 Years Old Plan Special Anniversary Services Next Sunday

POLO —(Special)— The 98th anniversary of Elkhorn (Brick) EUB Church, west of Polo, will be observed Sunday. There will be two special services, at 11 a.m. and 1:45 p.m. with a basket dinner at noon.

Guest speaker will be Dr. F. W. Boelter, professor of Old Testament of Evangelical Theological Seminary, Naperville.

Pearson Shoemaker, who was born in 1809 and who moved to the Elkhorn Grove area in the 1830's, was one of the main individuals who led the founding and construction of the first Brick Church. He and his wife built a log cabin at Elkhorn Grove. According to a history of Shoemaker, he had to fight wolves and other wild animals to protect his stock. The nearest post office at that time was at Dixon.

More Settlers
Around 1835 more settlers moved into the area and the first school was taught in 1835 and 1836. In 1852, a United Brethren revivalist held church services in the Eagle Point schoolhouse which still stands today. Shoemaker's barn and the schoolhouse served as a place of meeting for special services.

The church was officially dedicated in 1857. Brick used in the building of the church was made from clay taken from a field not far from the present church. The clay was mixed by oven. Shoemaker hauled the bricks, boarded the workmen and paid for a considerable share of the church.

Repair Church
In 1892, the church was repaired and resided and new pews were installed. The present church, which was built in 1917, used the same pews. In the old days, men and women each had separate entrances to the church. They each

Traffic Deaths Up 7 Per Cent 31,000 Die in First 10 Months of 1955

CHICAGO (AP)— Nearly 31,000 Americans were killed on highways in the first 10 months of this year—a 7 per cent increase over the same period in 1954.

The National Safety Council hopes the high traffic death toll will drive home to all motorists the necessity of driving carefully Thursday, Safe Driving Day, and every day.

The council released its tabulation of traffic deaths for October and the first 10 months of 1955 today to underscore the need for S-D Day, a 24-hour period sponsored by President Eisenhower's Committee for Traffic Safety when Americans are asked to make an extra effort to drive and walk safely.

Second S-D Day
Thursday's event will be the second observance of S-D Day. Traffic experts figured the first S-D Day, last Dec. 15, cut down accidents somewhat. Fifty-one persons were fatally injured on the highways that day.

The safety council issued these figures on the eve of S-D Day:

From Jan. 1 through Oct. 31, 1955, 30,980 persons were killed in traffic accidents. This is an average 101 deaths a day. But since it includes persons killed on holidays, when more motorists are on the highways, and those who die from injuries after accidents, a count on any one day like Thursday probably would not approach that 101 figure.

Toll a Record

The traffic death toll for October was 3,920—up 12 per cent over October, 1954, and the largest toll for any one month since the record high month of December, 1941.

Police departments and civic organizations across the country will make a special effort to hold down the number of traffic accidents in their communities. Banners urging motorists to drive carefully already are hanging across many streets.

The Associated Press will tabulate traffic deaths in every state. An AP spot survey on Thursday, Nov. 17, showed 68 traffic fatalities.

Housing Still Is A Hot Question Bank Attacks Arbitrary Standards for Homes

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The still lively demand of many Americans for a new house—and how much responsibility the government has to help them get one—is one of today's hottest questions.

Builders, mortgage lenders, and government money managers are sharply divided on the causes of the current drop in the number of new homes being started—and whether the home building industry needs a new shot in the arm through easier credit and lower interest rates.

And today a leading New York bank comes out flatly against government attempts to set or enforce "arbitrary standards of housing."

Wants Definition
The Guaranty Trust Co. in its December survey, out today, asks what is really meant by such words as "substandard" housing, "decent" housing, "adequate" housing, or housing "needs."

"Obviously," says the bank, "they express someone's idea of the sort of living quarters the people ought to have. In practice, they usually express the idea or ideas arrived at by some public official or board appointed by a paternalistic government to resolve, in behalf of the people, a personal question which the people are apparently presumed to be incapable of resolving for themselves."

In a free economy, the bank holds, "adequate" housing should mean only "that quantity and quality of housing which users are able and willing to buy and pay for at free-market levels of cost, in view of the other possible ways of spending their money."

Shouldn't Interfere
The bank contends that the government shouldn't tell people how they are to be housed any more than what food to eat or what clothing to wear.

The recent decline in home building, however, has brought concern in other quarters. Builders, naturally, don't like it. Many of them blame the slowing down on the government's policy of tightening mortgage payment rules, tightening the supply of credit, and letting interest rates rise.

The Department of Commerce, on the other hand, thinks the decline will be mild. It predicts that almost as much will be spent next year as this on home building—around 15 billion dollars.

Cut Cheaper Homes

Some builders think that the cut-back will be mostly in cheaper homes, with the average house buyer spending more for a new home.

Building material prices have tended to rise of late. Cement companies are raising prices. Lumber prices have firmed, partly because snow in the Pacific Northwest has hampered logging. The National Lumber Manufacturers Assn. reports that in mid-November production fell off about 12 per cent from the rate at the first of the month.

Music-Loving Spinster Wins Court Action

CHICAGO (AP)— The case of the reluctant church organist and the spinning spinster has ended in Circuit Court.

The spinster was victorious—in court. But if she still is bent on listening to the organist's soothing hymns, she may have to hire a detective to find him.

The case began nine months ago when organist Robert J. Metzler, 50, obtained an injunction to prevent Miss Harriet Davis, 35, and her mother, Belle, 55, from attending any church where he was working.

Metzler complained the mother and daughter sat in front pews and stared at him. This made him fidgety and he skipped notes in hymns. When he quit one job to get away from them, he said, the Davises followed him to a church 20 miles away in suburban Glenview.

They weren't interested in the musician, just his music, the Davises answered. They said it sends them.

"I have an entirely different emotional reaction when I hear him play," Miss Davis said.

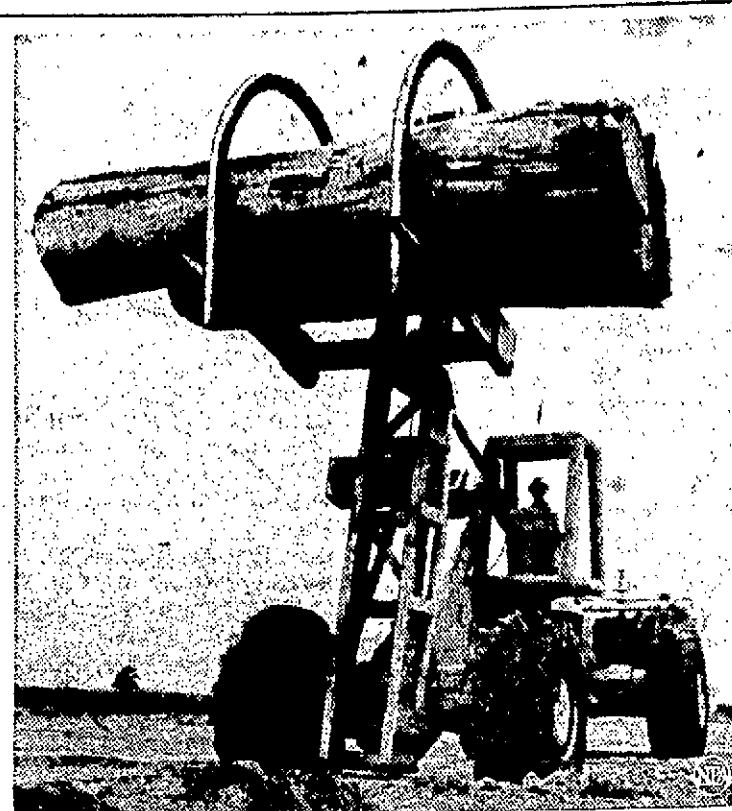

Judge Cornelius J. Harrington last June lifted the injunction in the case of Mrs. Davis after her lawyer explained she was ill and suffered a relapse because "she hasn't been able to hear the soothing music."

Judge Julius H. Miner Tuesday dissolved the injunction against Miss Davis, saying that he would not deprive any individual of the right to worship as she pleases.

The judge said if there is any disturbance in church, "the church has its remedies in the police courts, not by injunctions."

But Metzler's attorney said the women may have difficulty finding in which of the thousands of churches in the Chicago area Metzler is working. He has left his job in Glenview, Atty. George M. Hilgendorf said.

But the federal money managers think the main reason prices tend to rise is that the construction industry is operating close to capacity.

BIG LIFT FOR LUMBER—Logman's prayer answered is this Colliath on wheels. Shown lifting 40,000 pounds of iron-wood logs, it's capable of unloading a 50,000-pound truckload with one bite. The huge machine merely inserts its 10-foot wedges beneath the load on the truck, then clamps two tremendous tusks over the top. This is a far cry from the old method of dumping the load then lifting a few logs at a time for stacking. Engine and generator at rear power the lifting mechanism and electric motor in each wheel. It's made by R. G. LeTourneau, Inc., of Longview, Tex.

Two of Georgia Quads Die

ALMA, Ga. (AP)—Two of quadruplets born Tuesday to a 34-year-old farm wife died today after an all-night battle to save them.

Mrs. Dorothy Morris, administrator of the Bacon County Hospital, announced that the last two born of the four babies died at 8 a. m.

The others, she reported, were in fair condition. Word of the deaths was withheld temporarily from the mother, Mrs. E. E. Nelson, and her 36-year-old husband, a farmer and sawmill.

Tuesday night the mother had asked an age-old and bewildered question: "What in the world am I going to do with them?"

The father had an observation of his own: "I am completely overcome by this thing. Where are we going to put all of them?"

The Nelsons, who live at nearby Douglas, were expecting only a single child.

The father, a 35-year-old farmer and sawmill, brought his wife to the Bacon County Hospital here at 2:15 p. m. (EST) Tuesday. At 2:30 Dr. W. W. Sharpe took over.

Twenty minutes later the Nelsons were presented three girls and a boy.

The quads, each weighing about three pounds, were placed in incubators.

The odds against the birth and survival of quadruplets are in the millions. The national average in 1951 was seven in about four million births.

Mrs. Nelson had seven children before the quads. Six are still living and range in age from 12 months to 16 years.

Sen. McCarthy's Recommendation Is Turned Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—A snafu over the appointment of an acting postmaster at Appleton, Wis., the home town of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), has apparently been settled.

Postmaster General Summerfield, who usually does not figure publicly in such matters, announced Tuesday night the job will be filled temporarily by Edward R. Pinner, Appleton's assistant postmaster.

But preceding Summerfield's announcement this series of events took place:

McCarthy's office announced routinely last week that Thomas Miller, 57, had been appointed the acting postmaster. McCarthy had recommended him to replace the present postmaster, Stephen D. Balliet, who is retiring.

Wisconsin newsmen then discovered that Miller, a former tavern keeper, has a record of two convictions for violating state gambling laws and one for violating the prohibition act.

On Monday a Post Office Department spokesman who declined use of his name told a reporter that contrary to the announcement from McCarthy's office, Miller had not been appointed.

Summerfield said Miller "lacks the minimum requirements established by the Civil Service Commission and the Post Office Department for such appointments."

McCarthy and Miller had no comment.

ALL-STEEL BEAUTY at a steal of a price

The 1956 Buick SPECIAL 4-Door, 6-Passenger Estate Wagon

IN NO uncertain terms, this one makes your travel hours prideful as well as practical.

It's all Buick, you see—all 1956 Buick.

Which means a new lift to anyone's spirit—the new might of its 322-cubic-inch V8 engine raised to lofty new power highs—the new sizzle of its advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo®—the true sweetness of its great new ride.

But it's a lot more than that.

It's Buick's highly versatile Estate Wagon—now substantially lowered in price for 1956—and how much more practical can you get than that?

For with this one, and for an easy-to-reach figure—you have a car with all the suavity of a smart sedan plus the all-duty handiness of a suburban vehicle. You have a car completely steel-bodied, so its exterior upkeep stays simple and inexpensive—and a roomy car to carry six, plus gear.

You have a covered platform that's plain wonderful. It can take an inflated air mattress for sleeping. It can freight a small rowboat and camp equipment. It can hold luggage, or golf clubs and such—or the results of a mad shopping spree, even if you go in for antique furniture.

You can even have the rear seat come, at your option, in a handy split-section that lets you carry both rear-seat passengers and extra-long loads like skis, or fishing rods, or young trees, or two-by-fours.

So what more can we say, except come see it.

The Estate Wagon is available in Buick's two lowest-priced Series—the budget-tagged SPECIAL, and the high-powered CENTURY. And, we repeat, both newly lowered in price for 1956.

New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.*

Best
Buick
yet

Long Loads
are a breeze!
Fold down either or both sections of the rear seat and you have a covered platform 83 inches long with the tail gate closed—99.6 inches, with it open.

Thoughts About War

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (U)—Curbstone reflections of a pavement Plato: The world has always been a merry-go-round. It still is. Looking at the present merry-go-round, what do we find? Let us go around the world, starting with the American.

The American doesn't feel the need of war. He is enjoying the highest level of individual and national prosperity ever achieved in the history of mankind. To defend that happiness, however, he feels at heart ready, willing and able to deal death to any quarter of the globe that threatens him. He hopes he'll never have to fight again—but he'll fight. And he'll fight on.

English Reconciled
The English, following their modern pattern, concede in advance that their situation is hopeless militarily. They are reconciled to a fight in which they will never ever really give up.

The Frenchman, individual as ever, takes pride in his empire overseas but refuses to be drafted to defend it. As his hired soldiers from abroad dwindle, his empire will dwindle. Meanwhile, he'll claim a hold on the world's culture.

The German, having learned his lesson, is as always ready to fill the nearest gap of power, then fall to pondering whether, after all, he couldn't really win a world—if he could fight in only one direction at a time.

Many Red Aims
The Russian is trying to do everything. He is trying to be, above all, militarily self-contained. He wants to keep a foot on Germany, build housing for his masses, create and maintain the world's largest war machine, and pat Red China on the back at the same time he feels for a weak spot he may use later.

The Chinese are riding the peak of their wave. In their land revolution climbs a Red throne, and reaches from yesterday toward today.

Crowded India yearns to be the fulcrum, the balance point between the East and West, but vast China holds out the crimson hand of bargaining.

Japan Bounding
Industrious, market-hungry Japan, bounding back fast, reaches toward China, meanwhile sells in America.

In America a vast war machine is maintained and eternally refurbished, and new atomic power reactors are steadily built.

Everywhere in the world people are building in hopes of peace and worrying about war.

This is the merry-go-round. So it has usually been before. So it will probably be as long as one people or one country fears another.

DANCING SPUDS—Odd-shaped potatoes seem to dance, to the amazement of Antonio M. Almeida, who grew them at Fairhaven, Mass. The spuds took a little like pudgy pigs, ducks, sea lions and what have you.

Atomic Pioneer Buried in Potter's Field by Error

NEW YORK (U)—The widow of a scientist who helped develop the first atomic bomb says she has arranged to have him buried in Rochester, N. Y., thereby saving him from a potter's field burial here.

Mrs. Leonie M. Charles, who had been estranged from her husband, told of the Rochester burial arrangement Tuesday night.

City officials had said earlier that she told them she had "no funds" and wanted him to have a city burial.

Mrs. Charles said city officials had told her he would be buried in the city cemetery but she did not realize this meant potter's field.

The husband, Donald Randolph Charles, 46, was found dead in a hotel room Saturday, apparently a suicide. Found in the room was a note reading: "No job, no home, no property, no kin."

Mrs. Charles, who lives at Woods Hole, Mass., and came here to identify the body, said she and her husband separated last summer and she had not seen him since.

Charles, a Phi Beta Kappa student and a doctor of philosophy in zoology, was among scientists sent to Japan after the war to study effects of the atomic bomb on survivors.

He had worked on the famed Manhattan Project, which developed the bomb from 1943 to 1945. From 1948 to 1954 he headed the biology department of the University of Rochester.

Recently he worked for the Haloid Co. in Rochester, which does work in photographic processes. He was last seen in Rochester Nov. 8 when he came to New York, presumably for a business trip.

Mrs. Charles said Tuesday night she had talked with city officials about having her husband buried in a municipal cemetery and offered to make a deposit. She said she was told this would not be necessary and that she would be billed after his burial in "New York Cemetery."

"I later learned this New York Cemetery is Potter's field," she added. "I had no idea it was called that. I now have arranged to have him buried in Rochester."

Friends of Charles have reported that he knew for a year and a half that he was suffering from incurable Hodgkin's disease, a gland ailment.

To Adopt Son

HOLLYWOOD (U)—Marie Wilson and her husband, television producer Bob Fallon, plan to adopt a 4-month-old boy the actress saw while playing a benefit in Tennessee. They have no other children.

While Women Talk, House Burns Down

YORK, Pa. (U)—Mrs. Cletus Dentz saw smoke puffing from her neighbor's farm home Tuesday and called the volunteer fire department at New Salem, a mile away.

"I'm sorry," she was told, "but all the firemen have gone hunting." Pennsylvania's deer season opened Monday.

Mrs. Dentz's call had been taken by Harry Noss, who runs a gas station in New Salem and also takes all the calls for the volunteer firemen.

Noss figured he'd have to get somebody to the fire, so he tried to call the volunteer unit in Jacobus, six miles distant. But two women were talking on his 10-party line and refused to give it up, he said. Noss waited a bit, then tried again. The women were still talking and still in no mood to stop.

After another wait, this one lasting over 10 minutes, he got through to West York, also six miles away.

When the firemen got to the scene, the house, owned by George Sheets, was burned down.

Quiz Cab Driver In Sex Slaying Canton Man Denies He's Brutal Killer of Child

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (U)—A state crime official spoke today of "discrepancies" in the story told by a cab driver being questioned in the brutal sex-slaying of a Canton, Ill., schoolgirl.

James Christensen, superintendent of the State Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation, said after intermittent questioning of Lloyd Miller, 26, for seven hours:

"There are a lot of discrepancies in his alibi."

Christensen declined to elaborate on what he termed Miller's story "discrepancies."

Miller, also of Canton, is being questioned by state crime experts and Fulton County authorities about the Saturday afternoon slaying of Janice May, 8-year-old third grade student.

Found Near Home
She died a few hours after her two brothers found her, bruised, beaten and sexually-molested, near some railroad tracks a few blocks from their Canton home.

Christensen told newsmen after the lengthy questioning session which continued through Tuesday night that "Miller has not admitted a thing."

He said Miller, who was seized Monday night in Danville and taken to Springfield for questioning Tuesday, has told varying stories about his actions and whereabouts since Sunday morning, when he fled Canton.

Miller, being held on a charge of grand larceny for abandoning his cab Sunday in Pekin, some 30 miles from Canton, is scheduled for more questioning today.

Look Lie Test
Christensen said Miller took a lie test Tuesday night but that results would not be made known until later today. Miller has denied any knowledge of the slaying. He remained in custody in the Sangamon County jail.

Sheriff Virgil Ball of Fulton County, one of those questioning Miller, quoted the taxicab driver as saying he "left Canton because he was afraid he was going to be picked up and questioned about the crime."

He also quoted Miller as saying he left Canton because a man forced him at knife point to drive him to Pekin. The "man," Ball said, was not otherwise identified. Miller was seized in Danville at a bus station while making inquiries about service to Evansville, Ind. He was traced to Danville, authorities said, after they learned he had purchased a ticket for that destination in Pekin on Sunday.

Kept Secret
Although seized Monday night, Miller's arrest was kept secret and not disclosed until Tuesday. Vermillion County authorities said it was done at Sheriff Ball's insistence.

Ball, meanwhile, returned to Canton along with City Police Chief Kenneth Lindzey to undertake more investigation work. They were scheduled to return to Springfield later today.

Ball said Miller revealed under questioning that he had purchased an identification tag in Danville with the intention of changing his name. The sheriff also quoted Miller as saying he intended to go to Detroit.

Mother-in-Law Takes a Punch

MONTREAL (U)—George Warrington, 21, was sentenced on a charge of assault after his 18-year-old wife testified he came home drunk, ripped out the telephone, punched their 3-month-old baby and threatened to kill everyone in the house. She said the threats ended when Warrington's mother-in-law floored him with a blow to the head.

Ike's Friend Says President To Decide Soon

LOS ANGELES (U)—Former Colorado Gov. Dan Thornton says President Eisenhower may announce he is a candidate for reelection if he is convinced he has regained his health.

"If he continues his amazing recovery," Thornton told newsmen Tuesday, "it might be supposed that some announcement could be expected around Jan. 20, the third anniversary of his inauguration, or around Lincoln's Birthday."

Then Thornton, long-time friend and golfing companion of the President, added that it is too early to say what the President will do.

Schools Doing Best Job In History, Meet Told

But 'Improvement Desirable And Necessary,' Says Report

By HERB ALTSCHUL

WASHINGTON (U)—Delegates to the White House Conference on Education were in agreement today that the nation's schools "are doing the best job in their history" in teaching the three R's. But they agreed too that "improvement is desirable and necessary."

A number of the 1,800 participating delegates—some others are sitting in only as observers—grumbled that the first of the giant conference's reports Tuesday night was too generalized.

There were those who thought the delegates should have given solid backing to modern theories that emphasize adapting the child to his surroundings. But others thought the report should have called for concentrating on the traditional classical studies.

Must Keep Balance

The report treaded gingerly between the two lines. It said that "in each school an appropriate balance must be maintained . . . to insure wholesome, all-around development of the individual."

The report, summarizing round-table discussions on "What Should Our Schools Accomplish," was prepared by Dr. Adam Bennion, an apostle of the Church of the Latter Day Saints in Salt Lake City, and Dr. William Carr, executive secretary of the National Education Assn.

They came up with a 14-point program, including the middle-of-the-road position on curriculum and another which suggested teaching "ethical behavior based on a sense of moral and spiritual values."

Amplifying this point, the report said the schools must help youngsters "apply ethical values which will guide their moral judgments and their conduct, and to develop the recognition that these values stem from, among other sources, their spiritual and religious convictions."

Time Necessary

It added, that, on this point, "more time is necessary for the development of a common viewpoint."

The report called also for emphasis on the teaching of these things: "appreciation for our democratic heritage . . . intellectual curiosity and eagerness for life-long learning . . . respect and appreciation for human values and for the beliefs of others . . . an awareness of our relationships with the world community."

"All children," the report said, "should be free to seek the truth wherever it can be found."

The report was received with polite applause but no one rose to comment.

Neil McElroy, head of Procter & Gamble and general chairman of the conference, told a news conference Tuesday that the administration had ruled that the position of delegates on the question of segregated schools would have no bearing on payment of travel expenses to them. The conference is financed from a congressional appropriation.

Joy, Sorrow Come to 4-H Contestants

CHICAGO (U)—The National 4-H Club Congress brought happiness to one young Illinoisan. But it was a time for disappointment and sorrow for another.

Loren Boppert, 20, of Woodstock was awarded a $300 scholarship for his accomplishments in the field of electricity. Among other things, he completely rewired his family's dairy farm.

Frances Nelson, 18, of Wataga came to Chicago to be honored as the Illinois winner in the dress designing competition. She had looked forward to modeling her white-and-red costume at a style show Tuesday.

But she received word before the show that her father had died, and she returned home.

SAVED THE DAY

General Sheridan, on October 19, 1864, mounted his horse Pienzi and rode 20 miles from Winchester, Virginia, to Cedar Creek, where he turned his army's defeat into victory.

Tennessee Town To Honor Casey Jones, a Native

JACKSON, Tenn. (U)—This west Tennessee town has decided to build a railroad museum in honor of a hometown boy who became, the greatest railroader in American folklore—Casey Jones.

You've heard of Casey. He was the hotshot engineer of his day. He died in the wreck of the "Cannonball Express" near Vaughn, Miss., on April 30, 1900, and somebody wrote a song about it that swept Casey to immortality.

Casey lived here, still the home of his widow. The City Commission Tuesday authorized the building of a railroad museum around Casey's old frame house.

Mayor George Smith said present plans call for equipping the museum with exhibits outlining the railroad saga. He hopes to have a locomotive similar to Casey's old 382 mounted in front.

Don't Worry About Trifles in Babies, Says Pediatrician

BOSTON (U)—A New York pediatrician said today parents place too much importance upon trivial actions—like finger sucking—by their children.

Dr. Harry Bakwin told the American Medical Assn.'s ninth clinical session that finger sucking by babies is no more a psychiatric problem than "gum chewing in children and cigarette smoking in adults."
